To Aladdin Lamp Users

We are interested in having every Aladdin Lamp user secure a maximum of service from the Aladdin. Therefore here are a few suggestions which if followed will go a long way toward this end. If your Aladdin has not been in use for some time and oil has been allowed to stand in the bowl, the wick may have become hard and clogged so that it will not draw up the oil freely. A new wick will quickly and easily solve this kind of wick trouble.

Examine the generator and see that it is free from carbon deposit. If black residue has deposited on the generator, scrape it off with a knife and blow off any little particles that may have gotten into the little holes. The carbon can be thoroughly removed by boiling the generator in a strong solution of lye or Gold Dust, such as is used around the kitchen for cleaning purposes.

CAUTION: If the generator is dented—that is if any of the little bridges of metal between the holes are jammed and dented—put in a new generator, as a damaged generator will not give good results. A slight dent in the generator interferes with the introduction of the air, and consequently will not produce a uniform flame. Be sure and see that there are no little particles of residue or dirt in the generator holes; they must be clean and open. If the old mantle is not in good order, use a new one.

Fresh oil—a clean Aladdin Chimney—perfect generator—a new wick with a proper surface will give you your old time soft, white light again.

We will gladly include with your order a direction booklet for your Aladdin if you will request it on your order and mention model of your lamp.
